Great Damage on the Coast and in the Interior.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 2.- The destructive coast cyclone that caused the great loss to shipping along the Atlantic seaboard, switched into the gulf and lashed the coast of Campeachy as it was never lashed before. The reports of the great storm have been slow in reaching news centers, owing to the fact that telegraph lines connecting with the peninsula have been prostrated and the news was brought to Vera Cruz by a sailing vessel. What damage it has done outside of Isla Del Carmen is not known, but if it has been as destructive as it was then there can be but little shipping left. The hurricane was so strong in the city of Carmen that it pulled trees up by their roots and deposited them upon houses which

THEY CRUSHED LIKE EGG SHELLS. The inhabitants were terrified and missiles of all kinds were flying about the streets, knocking in windows, destroying vegetation and keeping the people from seeking safety in the open air. The scene among the sailors in en-deavoring to save their vessels was in some instances grand and in others heartrending. Vessel after vessel was driven ashore. An inventory of the number of craft that are complete wrecks gives an exact idea of the destructiveness of the storm. Twelve foreign barks, some of them high and dry on the beach, others partially submerged and still others with their masts sticking out of the water; two steamships and twenty schooners and many smaller craft complete the list in Carmen harbor. The number of lives lost still remains un-told. It is expected that the government report of the great storm will soon be published, furnishing the only authentic news which will ever be obtainable of the work of the hurri-

GOSSIP FROM LONDON.

English Workmen and the Rotterdam Strike-Our German Cattle Trade.

LONDON, Oct. 2.-The English dock laborers were greatly excited at the threatened importaion of foreign workmen to take their places during their strike and the most abusive epithets were launched against the "beggarly Dutchmen," as the lower-class Briton terms all foreigners not French. Yet as soon as the Rotterdam strike was begun Englishmen were the first to apply for work there, and only the ex-ertions of Tillet and other leaders prevented an organized invasion of the Dutch seaport. The police were on the side of the London strikers. There were no thoughts of using the military against them and they assaulted with perfect impunity any unfortunates who were unwise enough to trust to the laws to protect unwise enough to trust to the laws to protect them. Still this class quickly recognized the difference between England and Holland. In the latter country the police and military have not hesitated to repress physical violence and the Englishmen will be bought off by the Dutch strikers, which is precisely what they went over to Holland for. There is not a more cunning being on the face of the earth or one more expert in the art of getting along comfortably pert in the art of getting along comfortably without work than the nominal British laborer.

CONSUL EDWARDS NOT DISTURBED. Consul Edwards is not much disturbed by the abuse lavished upon him by certain Berlin journals, whose animus is not at all difficult to explain. Their allusions to the United States making Berlin a training school for ambitious but inexperienced civil servants are by no means apropos, as the real cause of the bitter hatred conceived against him by the dealers whose profitable trade he has interrupted is whose profitable trade he has interrupted is precisely that he is too acute to be made a tool of by them. The revelations made by the committee of inquiry into the condition of the tailors and seamstresses of London might be paralelled by a similar examination into the wages and condition of the corresponding class in Berlin. Nowhere are there ore meriless sweaters than the intermediaries between the cloak makers there and the work-ers, although it must be acknowledged that there are no such foul and crowded workshops in the German city as disgrace the English

NO CATTLE TRADE WITH GERMANY. In this connection it may be said that there is no certainty that the cattle trade with the interior of Germany will prove a permanent traffic, notwithstanding its promising beginning. A shipment to Mentz resulted in a con-tract for an increased supply for October, but already remonstrances have reached the government from German cattle breeders, and as a capital excuse for retaliation the American bovine may be found as unfitted for German use as the American porker and be excluded

Muldoon Couldn't Down Him. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.- Jack Carkeek of Michigan earned $25 at the Standard theater last evening by staying fifteen minutes with Wm. From Wall Street Today. NEW YORK, Oct. 2.-The stock market opened this morning with a moderate volume of business, and, following the example of London, first prices were higher than last night's figures, the advances extending from 1/2 to % per cent. The market was narrow, how-ever, and Atchison, St. Paul, Louisville and Nashville and Reading in the general list and sugar trusts in the unlisted stocks monopolized the greater portion of the business done. Further advances were scored in the early dealings, which, in most of the list, amounted dealings, which, in most of the list, amounted to from 1/2 to 1/4 per cent, while Atchison rose 1 per cent to 34 and sugar 1/8. The engagement of another half million gold for export, however, checked the buying and prices settled away until everything was something under the opening figures, though the market became dull. Manhattan became conspicuous with a drop of 2 per cent to 103. There was a somewhat better feeling toward the end of the hour, and at 11 o'clock the market was dull and fairly steady, though at about the lowest prices reached. August Belmont & Co. have ordered $500,000 more gold for export. Total engaged today and yesterday. port. Total engaged today and yesterday, $1,000,000. In the first hour on the stock exchange money was still stringent and loans were renewed early at 8 to 9 per cent.

Russell of Cambridge be placed before the convention for nomination as canwas tumultuous applause, and in response to calls, Mr. Maynard, in a brief speech, nominated for governor Hon. Wm. E. Russell of Cambridge. The nomination was seconded by W. S. McNeary of Boston and Wm. F. Moran of Woburn in brief speeches. Mr. Mellen of Worcester then caused a diversion by moving as a substitute the name of Hon. Thos. Went-worth Higginson of Boston. The motion was not seconded and the nomination of Russell was put at 1:25 p.m. and carried unanimously. A recess was then taken until 2:30 o'clock.

AN EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Large Attendance in New York Today -The Subjects to be Considered.

New York, Oct. 2.-The general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church opened this morning in St. George's church. Stuyvesant square. This is looked upon as one of the most important conventions ever held by the church in this country. This is the centennial anniversary of the adoption of the constitution of the Protestant Episcopal church and of the holding of the first general convention as prescribed by the church constitution. It is also notable for the number of important subjects to come up before it. One of the questions to be settled is the proposed change of name of the church, many being opposed to the present name. Another impor-tant question is that of proportional represen-

There are also eighteen resolutions prop ing "alterations and additions in the Rook of Common Prayer," which were adopted at the Chicago convention three years the Chicago convention three y fore the present convention for final action. The general convention consists of two houses, the house of bishops, numbering forty bishops, and the house of deputies, consisting of over 400 lay and clerical delegates two of each from each discoser. gates, two of each from each diocese.

THE OPENING EXERCISES. The convention opened today with the religious, exercises, the regular morning communion service being celebrated. At 11 o'clock every seat in the church was occupied.
While the large assemblage sat patiently waiting the opening of the service there rose softly at first, and then growing stronger, the clear voices of St. George's choir of men and boys. The choir marched down the center aisle to the entrance and were joined by several of the clergy of the church in clerical robes. Meanwhile, the forty bishops composing the house of bishops had assembled in the Memorial house on 16th street, and from it they marched in procession, clad in their silk gowns, lawn sleeves and other insignia of their Episcopal dignity. They were met at the entrance of the church by the clergy and committee of arrangements and the choir of men and boys. The choir singing the processional marched slowly back to the chancel, followed by the bishops. The latter on arriving at the chancel took seats within it. At their head there walked Bishop Williams, the old-est bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in America. The simple and well-known morning service was then begun and proceede until Bishop Whipple of Minnesota ascended the pulpit to preach the sermon of the day.

Mr. Blaine's Address. Mr. Blaine said: Gentlemen of the international American conference. Speaking for the national airs and selections from nagovernment of the United States I bid you welcome to this capital. Speaking for the people of the United States I bid you welcome to the United States I bid you welcome the east room were decorated with flowers and people of the United States I bid you welcome to every section and to every state of the to every section and to every state of the Union. You come in response to an invitation extended by the President on the special authorization of Congress. Your presence here is no ordinary event. It signifies much to the people of all America today. It may signify far more in the days to come. No conference of nations has ever assembled to consider the welfare of ter ever assembled to consider the welfare of territorial possessions so vast and to contemplate the possibilities of a future so great and so in-spiring. Those now sitting within the walls are empowered to speak for nations whose borders are on both the great oceans, whose northern limits are touched by the Arctic waters for a thousand miles beyond the Straits of Behring. whose southern extension furnishes human habitations farther below the equator than is elsewhere possible on the globe. The aggregate territorial extent of the nations here represented falls but little short of 12,000,000 of square miles—more than THREE TIMES THE AREA OF ALL EUROPE. and but little less than one-fourth part of the globe; while in respect to the power of producing the articles which are essential to human life and those which minister to life's luxury they constitute even a larger propor-tion of the entire world. These great posses-sions today have an aggregate population ap-proaching 120,000,000, but if peopled as densely as the average of Europe the total number would exceed 1,000,000,000. While considerations of this character must inspire Americans, both south and north, with the liveliest anticipations of future grandeur and power, they must also impress them with a sense of the gravest responsibility touching the character and development of their respective nationalities. The delegates whom I am addressing can do much to establish permanent relations of confidence, respect and friendship between the nations which they represent. They can show to the world

AN HONORABLE AND PEACEFUL CONFERENCE of seventeen independent American powers, in which all shall meet together on terms of absolute equality; a conference in which there can be no attempt to coerce a single delegate against his own conception of the interests of his nation; a conference which will permit no secret understanding on any subject, but will frankly publish to the world all its conclusions; a conference which will tolerate no spirit of conquest, but will aim to cultivate an American sympathy as broad as both continents; a conference which will form NO SELFISH ALLIANCE AGAINST THE OLDER NATIONS from which we are proud to claim inheritance-a conference, in fine, which will seek nothing, propose nothing, endure nothing that is not, in the general sense of all the delegates, timely and wise and peaceful.

And yet we cannot be expected to forget that our common fate has made us inhabitants of the two continents which at the close of four centuries are still regarded beyond the seas as the new world. Like situations beget like sympathies and impose like duties. We meet in the firm belief that the nations of America ought to be and can be more helpful, each to the other, than they now are, and that each will find advantage and profit from an enlarged intercourse with the others. We believe that we should be drawn together more closely by the highways of the sea and that at no distant day the railway systems of

The work of ejecting Mrs. Jane Smith from the Lochiel house, on 9th street, which was begun several days ago was renewed this morning, and all day long there was a series of exciting scenes at the house. The case was heard before Justice of the Peace Bundy yesterday, and he decided in favor of John Paul Jones, the owner of the property, against the protest of Mrs. Smith. The against the protest of Mrs. Smith. The case was appealed and Mrs. Smith gave the required bond. This morning the work of tearing down the building was begun. Mrs. Smith had two men and a boy to hold possession, but when the workmen appeared they were frightened off and then the furniture was removed from the building. Mr. Jones sent some of it to Mr. Duncan-son's ware rooms to be stored, but Mrs. Smith objected and it was then sent to a place on E

Alleged Policy Men Arrested. Inspector Block and Detective Carter made three arrests this morning. Frank Thompson, a furniture dealer at No. 917 7th street, was the first prisoner, but all that was found on him was a cipher book such as is used at the policy headquarters in Alexandria. In Thompson's store they also arrested a negro named Louis Brown. When searched the officers found some policy paraphernalia on him. They next arrested Frederick Niedfeldt, a cigar maker on 4th street, in whose place they found this morning's drawings.

Niedfeldt was extremely anxious to obtain sheet of the manifold copy, so that he could guard against fraud, as he claimed that the players would demand alleged winnings for playing the winning numbers. The officers furnished the sheets. The arrests were made on a raiding warrant issued by the chief of po-lice. Thompson was charged with backing policy and the others were charged with being writers. Chairman Parker of the triennial committee will meet

Gen. Roome at the depot with a carriage and escort him to the quarters prepared for him as the Ebbitt house. THE SESSION OF THE ENCAMPMENT. The Grand encampment will begin its triennial session at Masonic Temple immediately at the close of the parade Tuesday. In fact the parade is an escort for the Grand encampment to the place of meeting. The hour for assem-bling is put down as 2:30 o'clock, but it is not improbable that it will be an hour later than that before the procession has been reviewed and the encampment begins its sitting. The opening proceedings will be public. The Marine band will play. A speech of welcome on the part of the Knights of Washington will be made by Chairman Parker, who will introduce Comm Douglass. The Commissioner will formally welcome the visitors to the city, and an address responding both to Chairman Parker and Commissioner Douglass will be made by the grand master, Gen. Roome.
